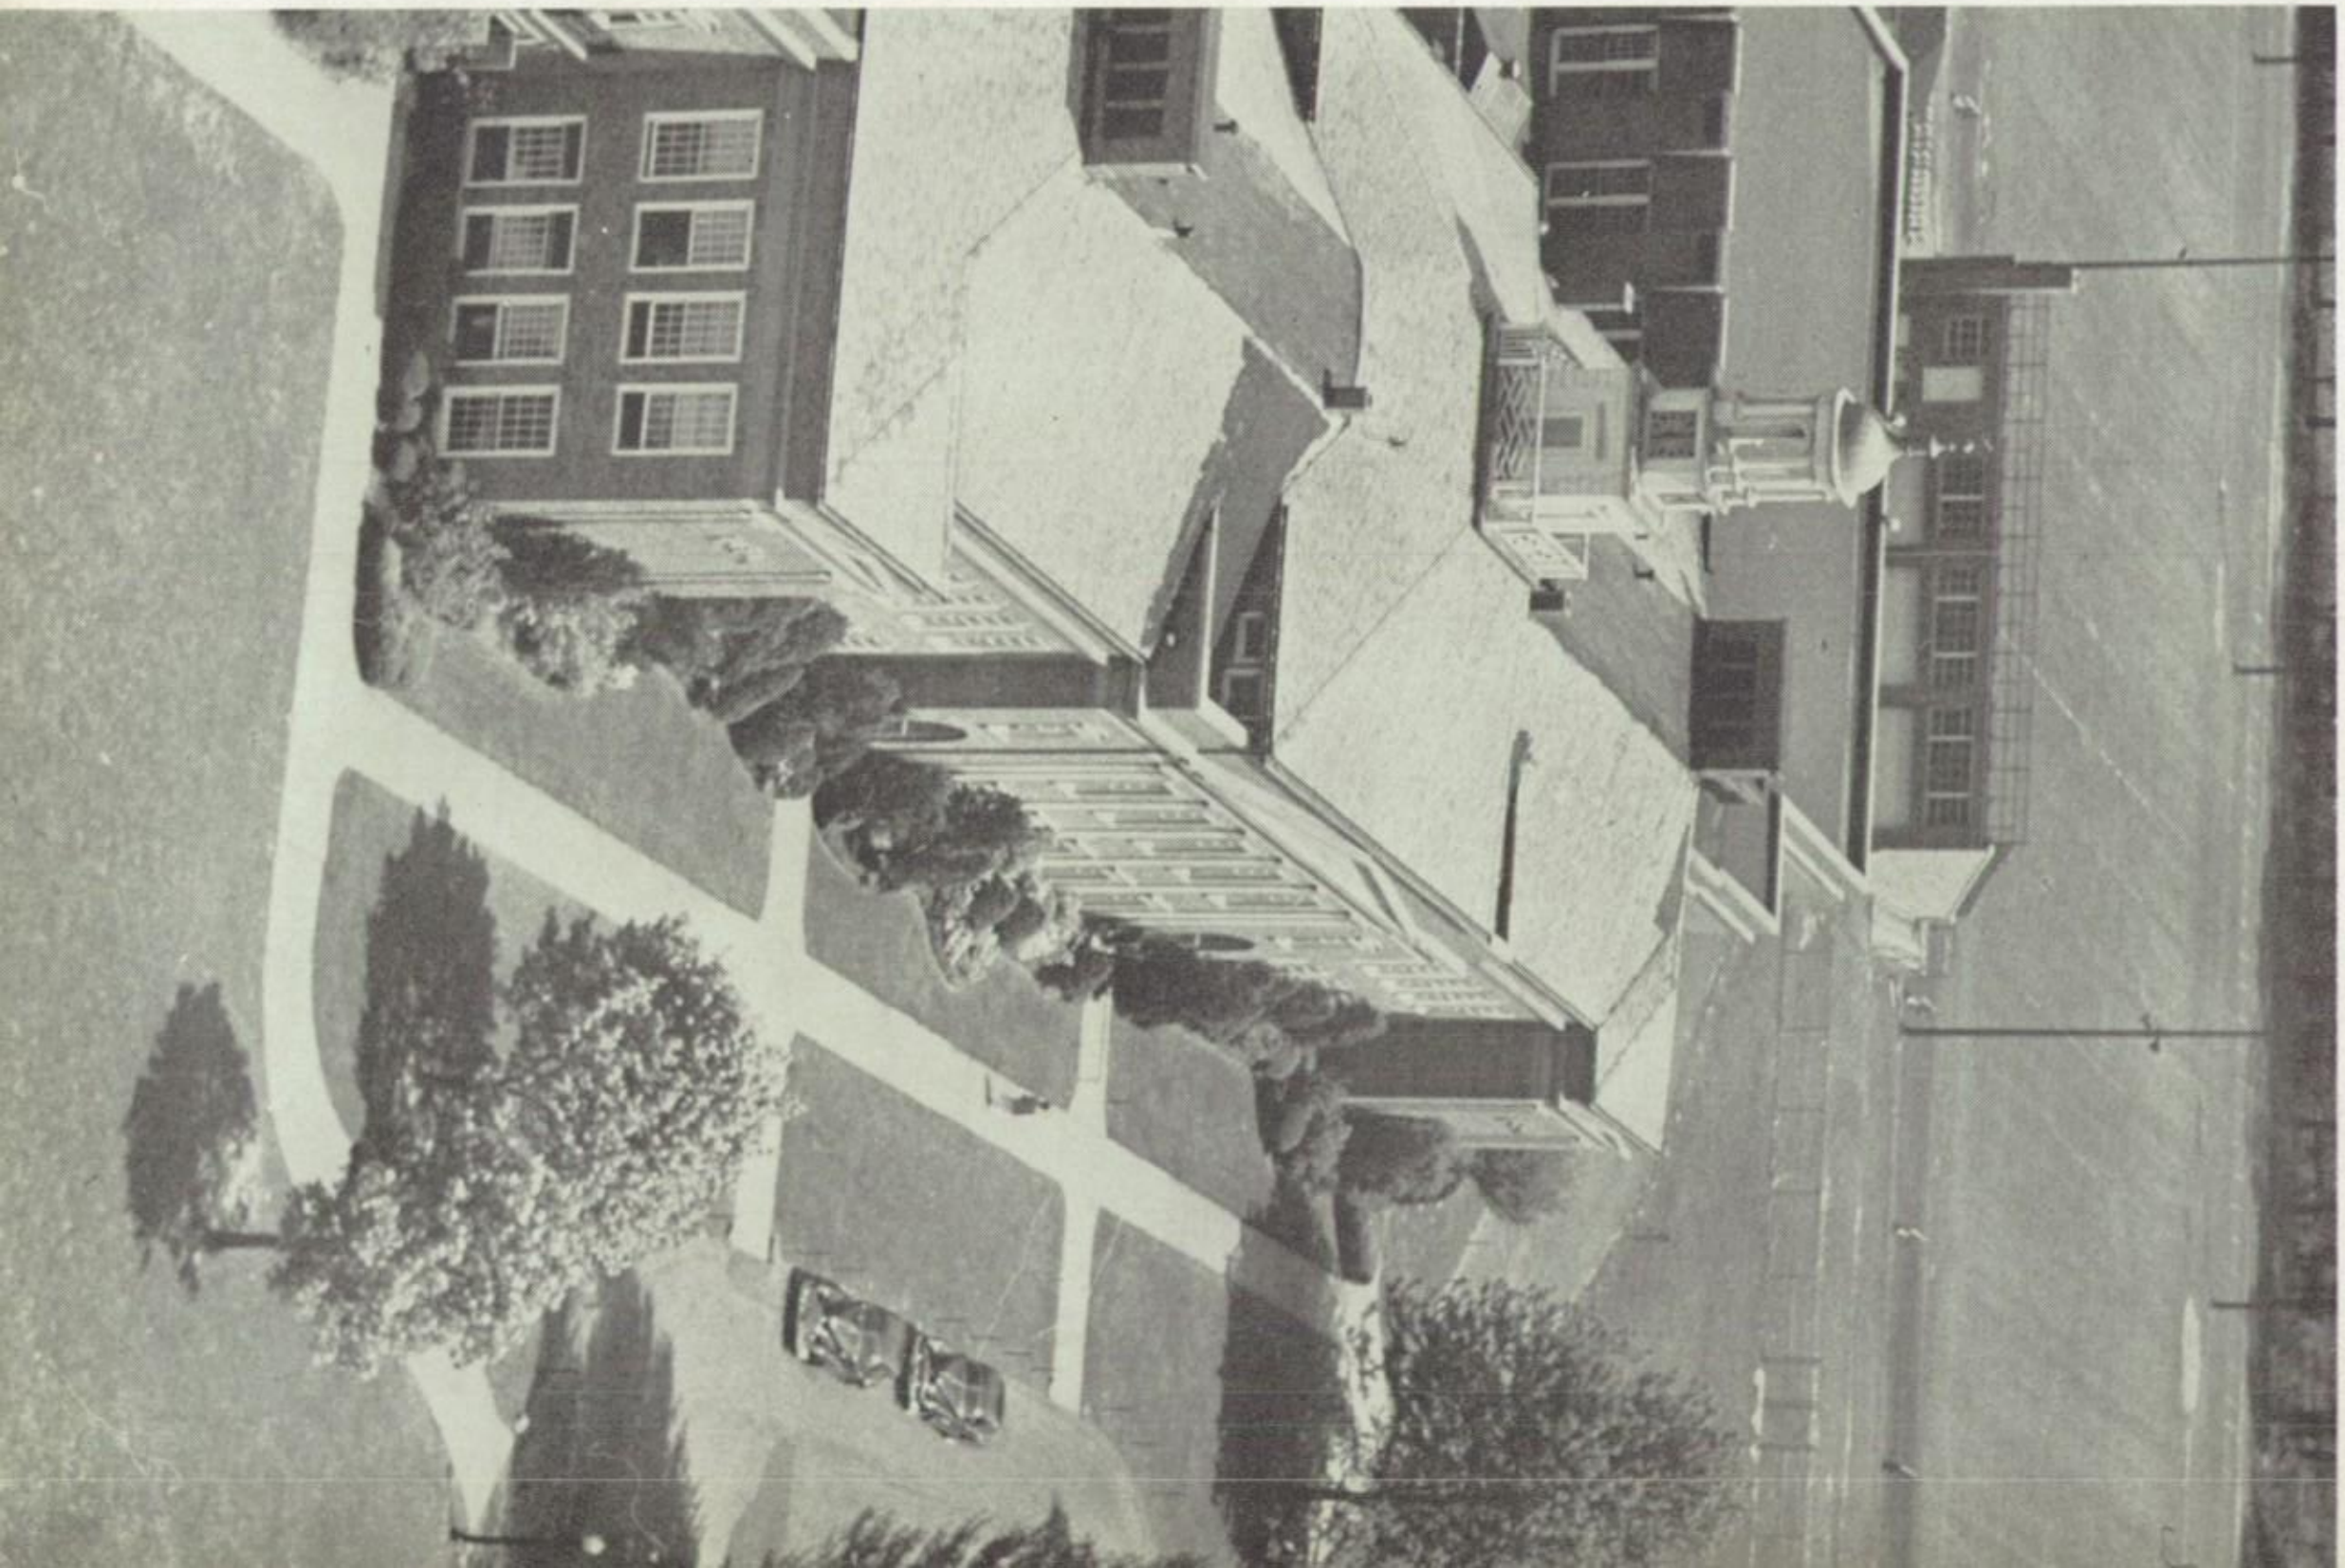
Foreword

PROUDLY stepping forth at the midway mark of the twentieth century, the class of 1950 pauses to present the story of our Midway, the broad and shining Way that represents our four-year journey through the "big top" of high school.

Just as the midway of a circus or a fair is its principal attraction, so the midway of our school life is education. The gates of admission are open to all; the choice of attractions is left to the individual. To those who are willing to spend the time and effort necessary to procure them, there are countless prizes to be won along the way. Behind the counters of booths and stands, our teachers and administrators offer wonderful wares available to anyone who stops to accept them.



Board of Education

Mr. Gail O. Sheats, Mr. W. Reed Hadsell, Mr. Lee R. Canfield, Mr. J. C. Nichols, Mr. J. C. Goddard, Mr. William B. Edwards, Mr. D. James Pritchard.

THE five civic-minded and conscientious members of the South Euclid-Lyndhurst Board of Education capably regulate affairs pertinent to the operation of our schools. One of the least publicized, hardest-working organizations in the community, this group has voluntarily contributed countless hours in order to elevate the standards of the South Euclid-Lyndhurst school system.

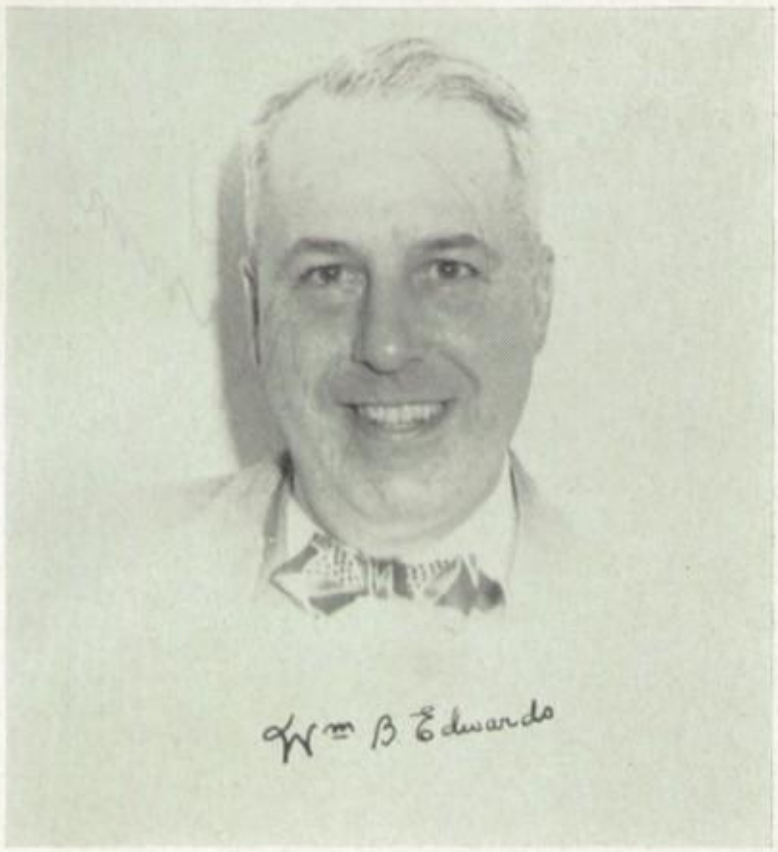
To increase its efficiency, the Board's duties are divided among four committees. Mr. Pritchard and Mr. Goddard serve on the Finance Committee; Mr. Nichols and Mr. Canfield handle the duties of the Educational and Public Relations Committees; Mr. Goddard and Mr. Hadsell make up the Buildings and Grounds Committee.

Present at every meeting and working hand in hand with the Board members are Wm. B. Edwards, Superintendent of Schools, and Gail O. Sheats, clerk-treasurer.

During the past few years the populations of both communities have increased prodigiously, and school enrollment has been pushed to overflowing. Hence, much of the work of the Board members has been in connection with new building construction. Their discerning realization of the needs of our community and their far-sighted planning for our educational progress is now being brought to fruition. Among the major projects were the Memorial Junior High School and the Rowland Elementary School, both completed in 1949. The Bolton Elementary School in Lyndhurst will be ready for occupancy in September, 1950.

These men have assumed a tremendous responsibility. Through their "behind the scene" efforts, the vast amount of planning so essential to the managing of an efficient Midway has been successfully accomplished.

The sincere thanks of a truly grateful student body are extended to these public-spirited men.



Superintendent

A SUCCESSFUL Midway must continually incorporate bigger and better attractions. Somewhere behind the scenes there is always an instigator, a man with ideas—someone to add to and revise the main acts on the program. Along our Midway, that man is William B. Edwards. As Superintendent of the South Euclid-Lyndhurst school system, Mr. Edwards has worked unceasingly to raise the standards of our rapidly-growing school district. His ideas were prominent in formulating far-sighted school policies, in inaugurating the night recreation program, and in furthering the long-awaited plans for a community branch of the Y.M.C.A. Ever-devising, ever-encouraging, his earnest efforts have won him the respect and admiration of everyone.

Principal

BEHIND the smooth functioning of any performance there must always be the guidance of management and the toil of labor. Our principal, Robert A. Shupp, has furnished both on the Brush High Midway. Whether directing school business in his capacity as administrator, toting bricks for the erection of a youth canteen, or emerging, stained with ink, from somewhere deep within the maze of new printing equipment, Mr. Shupp has led by example. He has endeared himself to all of us as an ever-willing fellow-worker, always ready to lend a husky shoulder to the project at hand.

Hur-ry, hur-ry, hur-ry! Step right up! The big show's about to begin! It's stupendous! Colossal! with enough memories to last you a lifetime!

These words marked the beginning of a long-awaited excursion. No longer were we compelled to peek curiously under the outer fringe of the big top; we were mighty high school freshmen, actually entering the tall gates of admission for our trip through the fabulous Midway.

The class of 1950 has since reached the end of that wonderful journey. We've stopped at the booths, tasted and tested the wares of each barker. Most of us have traversed the Midway to a useful and well-rounded education. Through time and conscientious effort, our tickets have been transformed into prizes of knowledge and ribbons of merit.

Others among us found the sideshows and diversified attractions lining the edge of the main stem too alluring to resist.

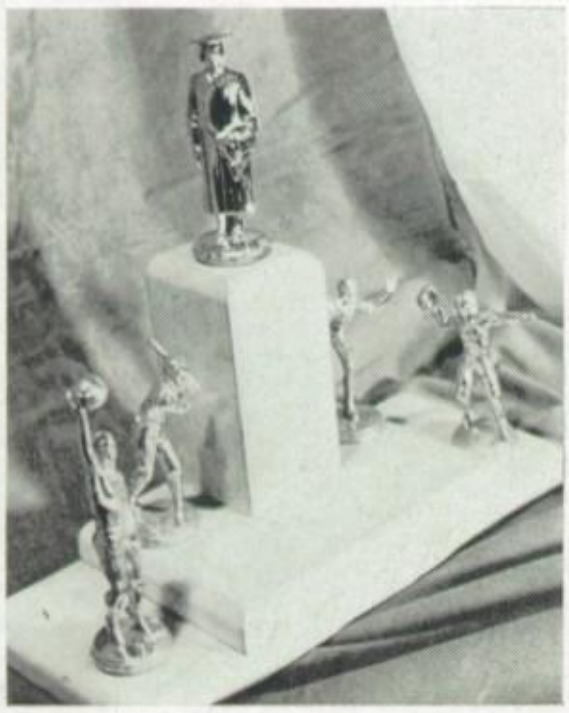
and turn to meet the challenges of a complex world.



THIS is the model of the Gerald Mika Memorial Trophy, awarded in memory of Jerry Mika, who would have graduated with the Class of 1950. This honor is bestowed on that senior boy who has best maintained high standards of scholarship, leadership, and character while participating in Brush athletics. The recipient must have competed in any two of the four primary varsity sports. The first name to be inscribed on the Memorial Trophy was that of William Scheider, a member of the Class of 1949.

THE Senior Class of 1950 wishes to express its gratitude to its advisers—Mrs. Cartwright, Miss Ingram, Mr. Jacque, Miss Robinson, and Mr. Weinmann—for their guidance and friendship; to Miss Reppert for her assistance in the publication of this yearbook; to Miss McNary for her supervision of the business staff of the Hi-Lite; to Miss Kingzett for directing the senior play; to our patrons for their financial aid; and to Mr. Wahl, Mr. Partridge, Mr. Vance, and Mr. Rieth for their professional advice.

Spotlighting the

Our class has been one of remarkable measure,
Especially regarding its talent for pleasure;
And so—for the good of all seniors-to-be—
We've consented to publish our class history:

'Twas in forty-four that we made our debut;
Our saga since then has been equalled by few.

The first dancing class was the start of it all—
The boys were too short; the girls, too tall!

Our "wild" freshman parties began the mad whirl;
We had our first taste of the senior high swirl.

Homework came second to slambooks and notes,
(Things more alluring than Ivanhoe quotes!)

Soon we were sophomores, so smart and so wise,
With a worldly air that a senior would prize!

Class picnics galore, with their food and their fun;
The only thing missing?—"that lucky old sun."

Black and gold jackets, the boys all for 'em;
The girls made fun, but guess who wore 'em!

Remember the games and the good times after—
With juniors packed in to the topmost rafter?

Main Attractions

Prom night! the magic of "Rhapsody in Blue"
Wove spells of enchantment till morning was through.

And then we were seniors, our class at the top,
We'd finally arrived for the Midway's last stop.

At the Varsity Hop reigned our Football Queen,
Soft lights and sweet music completing the scene.

In the magazine drive we joined with the rest;
Our Reward? A piano that ranks with the best.

Term papers, "Macbeth", and our lamps burning late,
We took this in stride; 'tis a poor senior's fate.

We learned once again that poor crime just can't win,
From the menu of murders at "Ramshackle Inn"!

The long months of worry, impatience, and doubt,
Were forgotten at once when our Hi-Lite came out!

Our last days were spent with awards to bestow,
The picnic, parade, and our Senior Day show.

We've at last reached the end of our long, long, trip,
And we've shared in a wonderful partnership—
We've earned the best seats of the whole Midway
For the grand finale—Commencement Day!

THE busiest concessionaires along the bustling Midway were the members of the Brush Student Council. Numerous opportunities for diversified forms of leadership and service were present in this all-school organization.

The coronation assembly, the tradition-filled Varsity Hop, the Brown and Gold Review, the Spring Dance—these were just a few of the many colorful activities under the complete direction of the Council. Other services less pretentious yet definitely essential to an efficient school program were the collection of money at the noon movies, the supervision of hall guards, and the operation of the Brush High "Lost and Found", a magnet for paraphernalia scattered along the Midway by carefree strollers.

The officers guided by Mrs. Lavina King were Maralyn Smith, president; Ronald Petti, vice-president; John Kanuch, secretary; and Anne Hawk, treasurer.

THE most coveted prize which may be won by a junior or senior is the shining gold pin which signifies membership in the National Honor Society. The letters CSLS engraved upon the emblem represent Citizenship, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service—the four cardinal principles by which entrants to the society are judged.

One of the most impressive ceremonies of the year was the candlelight initiation of the incoming members of the Honor Society. These students, having pledged themselves to uphold the ideals of the organization to which they were chosen, received a lighted torch representing knowledge, the principal attraction of the Midway.

The officers of this honor organization were Joan Dunlop, president; Ronald Petti, vice-president; Connie Fletcher, secretary; and Richard Sylvester, treasurer. Miss Blanche Robinson is the faculty adviser.

Band Honor Society

THE guiding organization behind the Brush High Band is the Band Honor Society. Entrants to this exclusive group are judged on four qualities: musicianship, service, leadership, and citizenship. Only concert band members are eligible for membership.

Among the Band Honor Society's various duties were the planning and editing of football programs, promotion of ticket sales, art, and publicity work. Throughout the year the organization attempted to suggest suitable solutions for the many problems with which the band was faced.

Leading this group, under the supervision of Frank Miller, were Walter Bonsack, president; Richard Howard, vice-president; C. Knierim, secretary and treasurer.

Brush High Band

"THE drums, they banged, and the cymbals clanged, and the horns, they blazed away!" —and the Brush High Band went stepping gaily up the center of the Midway.

Clad in their traditional brown and gold uniforms, the band members, under the baton of Frank Miller, were instrumental in entertaining the great crowds that lined the bustling Main Stem. The colorful and melodious half-time shows during football season, and the Spring Concert presented by the combined Brush, Garfield, and Shaw bands were among the many band activities that will long remain vivid in the memories of the spectators.

A MAJOR event confronting the Senior Class each year is the production of the annual. With Richard Sylvester, the ringmaster, directing the hard-working performers, Connie Fletcher handling the cash box, and Miss Hazel Reppert and Miss Corinne McNary directing the work of the editorial and business staffs respectively, the 1950 Hi-Lite staff got under way. All the staff members played an active part by selling advertising, doing art work, writing articles, or helping to assemble the completed product.

As custom dictates, the Junior Class elected its editor and business manager a year in advance in order to prepare them better for the problems of producing next year's Hi-Lite. The two elected, Ed Corlett and Harry Postlewait, worked in apprenticeship with the seniors while learning the intricacies pertaining to yearbook production.

and The Arc-Lite

Thomas, M. Weatherell.

"EXTRA! Extra! Read all about it!" That was the cry that echoed through the Brush High halls every month when the eagerly-awaited Arc-Lite reached the cafeteria newsstand.

Containing every phase of journalistic endeavor—from idle banter to serious editorial subjects—the paper was instrumental in bringing school news to the attention of the student body. "Senior Sketches", a special Arc-Lite feature honoring outstanding seniors, was one of the many sections of the newspaper anticipated with great interest.

Staff members ranged from eighth graders to seniors. Many of them worked on all details of publication and are using their Arc-Lite experience as a background for a future career in journalism.

This year's editor was Ronald Petti; the assistant editor, Nancy Brown. The staff was under the sponsorship of Mrs. Mildred Dilworth.

Y-Teens

MIDWAYS may come, and Midways may go; yet in each Y-Teen's memory the picture of the gaily-decorated booth representing her organization will remain as vivid as on the day she first became a member. Its wares were many. The annual Hi-Y-Teen dance, the initiation program, the Christmas project for Rainbow Hospital, the pot-luck supper, panel discussions, and numerous other activities sponsored by the Young Women's Christian Association, the parent organization of the Y-Teen chapter, were among them.

The club officers—Shirley Perrine, Joan Dunlop, Maralyn Seywert, and Connie Fletcher—supported by a competent cabinet, worked diligently planning activities in keeping with the club's program.

Advising this active group were Mrs. Donna Keeler and Miss Margaret Dwyer.

A. Longo, E. Capadona, A. Guerrini, E. Brown, F. VanCucha, W. Spadaro, J. Savage. H. Clark, Secretary; P. Farnham, W. Haffey, R. Heeschen, R. Hodina, C. Snider. Mr. Roberts, D. Demmerle, R. Wolf, J. Kennedy, R. Jones, R. Grano, Vice-President; Mr. Reker.

THE principal aim of "Sachem", the Brush High School chapter of Hi-Y, is to prepare Brush boys for the world awaiting them after graduation. This organization, a junior division of the Young Men's Christian Association, hopes to assist these boys in becoming worthy young men ready to take their place as active members of our community. High standards of character are maintained through continuous spiritual guidance. Likewise, other phases of the Hi-Y program allow the member to mature both physically and socially. Under the supervision of Howard Roberts and Louis Reker, this year's club incorporated into its weekly meetings various athletic activities, and made frequent use of the excellent facilities of the Central Y.M.C.A.

Social development, a primary club objective, was furthered by numerous dances, parties, and hayrides. Needless to say, membership was a popular goal among fellows of the three senior high classes.

One of the major events of the Hi-Y's social program, the Hi-Y-Teen Dance, has grown during the past few years into a traditional Brush midwinter affair.

Chorus

THE Junior and Senior Choruses, under the direction of F. Edwin Miller, have provided many hours of entertainment both for the students of Brush High School and for the citizens of South Euclid and Lyndhurst.

The special Christmas program presented by the members of the Junior Chorus was a festive part of the holiday season and aided in spreading the yuletide spirit. Both modern ballads and traditional holiday carols were sung and enjoyed by all.

The Brush Choruses have given music-minded students a fine opportunity to develop their talents, and have encouraged the appreciation of vocal music throughout the entire student body.

Girls' Glee Club

Active Members—C. Brocklehurst, M. Cain, F. Gerlosky, S. Howe, A. Machura, S. Machura, B. Mackey, A. Mitchell, R. Schmidt, J. Stuchel, M. Lees, G. Agard, A. DiFrancesco, M. Eddy, G. Frankel, N. Moore, C. Vande Stadt, B. Stjarnstrom.

AN innovation on the 1950 Midway was the Girls' Glee Club. Rarely is a school group formed for the sheer enjoyment it provides for its members, but such is the main purpose of this organization.

To satisfy their musical appetite, club members met on Monday afternoons and rehearsed songs new and old, popular and classical. After diligent practice under the direction of F. Edwin Miller this choral club presented a portion of its repertoire at the annual Christmas program. It also contributed ably to the Spring Festival, a musical produced each year.

With their sparkling rhythm and song the Girls' Glee Club has offered much enjoyment to the Midway's passers-by.

Girls' Athletic Association

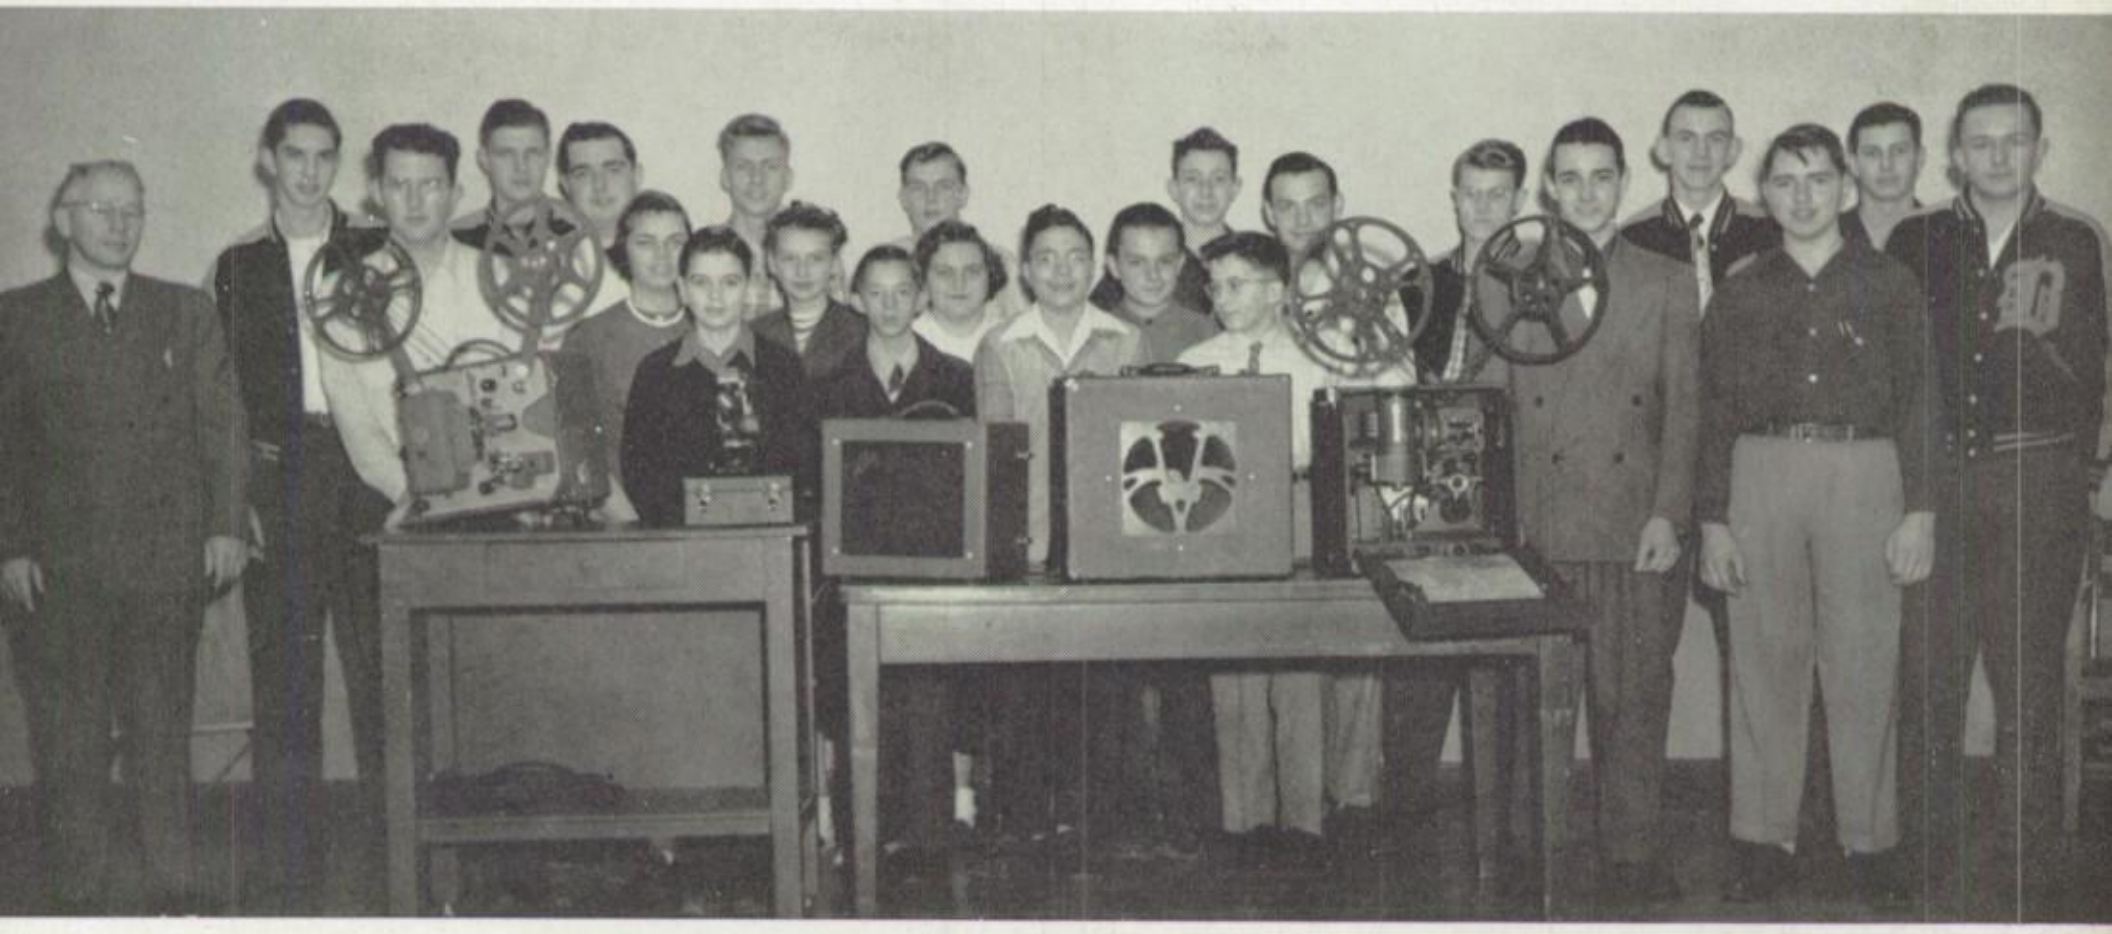
PROMINENT among the girls' organizations at Brush is the Girls' Athletic Association. This group holds semi-monthly meetings for the purpose of planning intramural volley-ball and basketball schedules, playdays, and other athletic activities.

Many of the girls volunteered much of their personal time to serve as gym leaders and to officiate at the after-school intramural games.

Miss June Hackett, the girls' physical education instructor, was the G.A.A. sponsor. The officers of the organization were Margaret Corlett, president; Dora Ganger, vice-president; Nancy Brown, secretary; and Jean Hoge, treasurer.

Visual Service Club



W. Bonsack, President; R. Howard, Vice-President; A. Krause, Secretary-Treasurer. R. Arndt, J. Crozier, J. Downing, A. Ferguson, B. Glause, R. Hodina, H. Keichel, B. Palley, E. Rose, J. Starkey. Apprentice Members: R. Alpers, B. Bonsack, R. Connor, J. Fisher, R. Harrod, E. Helsing, G. Jenkins, B. Laurin, H. MacNail, B. Martin, D. Miller, D. Ralston, P. Roberto.

ONE of the busiest stands along the 1950 Midway belonged to the members of the Visual Service Club. Classroom movies and slides are an important part of the Brush educational program, and it is the task of the Visual Service Club to provide them.

The only prize for these hard-working Brushites, other than the self-satisfaction of a service well done, is a recognition award at the end of the year. Neophytes receive a certificate of merit; second-year members, a chenille letter; and seniors, a gold service pin indicating term of membership.

The functions of this organization have proved vital in the field of visual education and recreation. Under the guidance of Mr. Elmer Treece, the club members have established an admirable record of efficient and valuable service to Brush High School.

The club officers were Walter Bonsack, president; Richard Howard, vice-president; and Allen Krause, secretary-treasurer.

Future Teachers of America

H. McCloy, President; M. Mason, Vice-President; C. Klemenc, Secretary; J. Kennedy, Treasurer. L. Batten, B. Brancato, R. Burgess, C. Brocklehurst, N. Brown, J. Dunlop, J. Hoge, P. Jarmush, G. Jenkins, S. Kissel, J. Lyons, R. Mancini, J. Maturka, M. Mische, I. Molnar, M. Paventi, S. Perrine, J. Rogers, R. Schmidt, M. Seywert, B. Stjarnstrom, C. Vande Stadt, J. Westlake.

SINCE its beginning in 1947, the Charles F. Brush chapter of the Future Teachers of America has steadily progressed in its aims to acquaint students with the aspects of the teaching profession.

This year the club joined the District F.T.A., an organization of the various Future Teachers of America chapters of Greater Cleveland. The Brush club, along with the other member clubs, profited by the general exchange of ideas which affiliation with this organization provided.

The Brush High club has an extensive service program. Members tutor students in need of aid, act as temporary substitutes, and assist teachers in the various elementary grades. For these services they are awarded merit points which can be transferred to their college records and applications for teaching positions.

In the early fall the club held a tea at the home of Miss Alice Ingram, the club's sponsor, for the installation of new members. Also included in the club's program were enlightening talks by Mr. Robert Timmons, Supervisor of Elementary Schools, and Mr. John Jacque, faculty adviser concerned with college entrance requirements.

The club's executives were Helen McCloy, president; Marjorie Mason, vice-president; Carolyn Klemenc, secretary; and Jim Kennedy, treasurer.

Junior Council on World Affairs

"IN ORDER to establish a better contact with the events of a changing world, and to acquaint ourselves with its problems and their solutions", the Charles F. Brush Chapter of the Junior Council on World Affairs was formed.

Panel discussions and heated debates were among the Council's many activities. A delegate was chosen to represent Brush High School on the New York Herald Tribune Forum Trip, an annual affair which attempts to acquaint the high school students of America with the functions of the United Nations.

In addition, the organization succeeded in bringing to our school many noted speakers, among them Congressman Frances P. Bolton, who discussed "Problems of Europe Today"; Dr. David Dietz of the Cleveland Press, who enlightened the students on the subject of atomic energy; and Miss Alice Moore, an exchange teacher from England, who contrasted the American and British school systems.

The club members, under the sponsorship of Mr. Karl Keller, have focused the spotlight of attention on international affairs—the greatest show on earth.

RETURNING this year to cheer on the Brush athletic teams were five senior cheer leaders, defending champions of Northeastern Ohio. Strengthened by the addition of three juniors who moved to the varsity ranks through a series of school-wide competitions, the squad spent countless hours in devising new yells and formations.

This ceaseless practice under the watchful eyes of Miss Frances Woodworth resulted in a precision that caused spectators to gape in wonderment at their intricately-styled routines.

Barkers for some of the Midway's biggest attractions, the cheer leaders sponsored many pep assemblies and other activities aimed at boosting school spirit and team morale.

Leading their last "Brush Clap" for the Arcs were Annette Cicero, Marilyn Donald, Louise Jaskulsky, Nedra Kingzett, and Peggy Moser. Back next year to boost the teams will be Janet Burton, Betty D'Amico, and Pat Nichols.

Majorettes

M. Martin, S. Mika, B. Schaefer, M. Sidano, P. Moore, M. Hamblin.

THE Brush High School drum majorettes, resplendent in brand-new, gleaming white uniforms, will remain one of the most colorful memories of the 1949 Brush football season. Strutting down the center of the gridiron, bodies in perfect coordination, and batons whirling, the majorettes added a bit of dash and snap to the machine-like precision of the band half-time formations.

The girls are competitively chosen late in the spring; practice begins almost immediately. During the summer they practice twirling as a unit, and learn the standard routines. Variations of these routines are worked into the various band football shows.

Last autumn the majorettes practiced with the band every morning, oftentimes returning again at night in order to work out new and more intricate formations.

The girls' biggest half-time show occurred during the Cleveland Browns-San Francisco 49'ers game at the Cleveland Stadium when Brush was invited to help entertain the massive crowd of football fans. After the game Paul Brown honored the majorettes by presenting them with the football used during the game.

Ink Spots

B. Bevacqua, C. Bauman, R. Demming, A. DiFrancesco, D. Edwards, J. Hasenpflug, D. Heidell, J. LePan, Secretary; D. Miller, I. Molnar, B. Pelton, M. Ramsey, A. Shirilla, B. Sylvester, L. Thomas, President.

DURING the past year, the wastebasket of the Ink Spots' meeting room was continually filled with dangling participles, split infinitives, and misplaced modifiers. Constantly seeking to improve their writing ability, the club members, under the direction of Mrs. Doris Govan, met weekly to appraise new literary creations.

The prime objective of the Ink Spots is to improve the caliber of their creative writing. Accordingly, a veritable deluge of poetry, assembly scripts, and short stories flowed from their skillful pens. A surprising number of Ink Spot creations found a practical use in script material for other Midway attractions.

Flicker-Flash

G. Jenkins, R. Berko, C. Ashdown, P. Conner, D. DiBarto, M. Krataville, D. McCullough, C. Novy, L. Rose, M. Strohm, D. Spies, G. Westinhaver, D. Westinhaver, D. Whinton, D. Zmek.

FLICKER-FLASH club members, under the guidance of Malcolm Salinger, had a busy year in 1950. Meeting weekly, these amateur photographers continually planned new and different activities to acquaint them with the various phases of photography.

The darkroom itself, a gift of the Board of Education, was a constant source of delight to the club members. There they learned the process of developing and enlarging the films, the art of printing negatives, and the manipulation of darkroom equipment.

In addition to sponsoring their Camera Club contests, this year's organization produced personalized Christmas cards. Numerous field trips were taken for the purpose of providing additional picture material, and the club members responded by turning in an unprecedented number of snapshots.

Flicker-Flash officers during the past year were Grace Jenkins, president; Charles Novy, vice-president; Roy Berko, secretary; and Carol Ashdown, treasurer.

Radio Club

B. Palley, B. Culp, R. Howard, E. Rose, J. Downing, B. Glause, A. Krause, W. Bonsack.

UNIQUE among the organizations at Brush is the Radio Club. Its membership is composed of those students interested in the intriguing details of the ever-expanding science of electronics. Under the guidance of Mr. Maynard Elliott, the members met weekly to discuss newest developments in the field of radio and to master the complexities of electronic devices.

This year the Board of Education contributed to the club's growing stock of equipment an intricate radio layout demonstrating the principles of radio reception.

Although this club was one of the least publicized at Brush, its members contributed much in keeping the brighter attractions of the Midway running smoothly. The complete supervision of the public address system at football games, track meets, and school assemblies was an important part of the 1950 Radio Club agenda.

The officers of the club are Walter Bonsack, president; Bill Palley, vice-president; and Allen Krause, secretary-treasurer.

M. Belkey, B. Buell, R. Burgess, J. Burri, C. Burris, D. Craig, G. DeOreo, G. Frankel, N. Guda, M. Haueisen, B. Healy, M. Jenks, J. Kennedy, S. Kollmorgan, T. Lees, C. Limp, J. Lyons, I. Molnar, V. Moorehead, R. Petti, S. Rees, L. Robinson, B. Sain, R. Schmidt, M. Smillie, M. Strohm, K. Wagner, S. Winkleman.

THE Junior Red Cross is a service organization composed of representatives from each of the Brush homerooms. Meeting semimonthly under the careful direction of Mrs. Blanche Cartwright, the council worked diligently this year in assisting the parent organization in various charitable and social services. In cooperation with Mrs. Cartwright's art students, the club members made numerous toys and knick-knacks for distribution at Christmas time. The major portion of their efforts during the second semester was directed to making favors for bed-ridden hospital patients.

Once each month a club member was sent to the district Red Cross meeting where representatives of all the local organizations met and discussed new and better means of rendering service.

Officers this year were Roberta Burgess, president; Sally Winkleman, vice-president; Gail Frankel, secretary; and Betty Lu Sain, treasurer.

Library Assistants

J. Jarmush, J. Basler, J. Banse, C. Colby, S. Chalmers, M. Martin, G. Wirth, M. Bilky, P. Byrne. Not Pictured—T. Khaner, N. Miekle, M. Amendola, A. Swartz.

THOUGH the organization is not a new one, little recognition has ever been accorded the efforts of that small group of assiduous workers who aid the Brush librarians. The library assistants have proved invaluable in the performance of such tasks as issuing and checking-in books, taking attendance during school periods, repairing worn magazines, and helping to process new books. Relieved of these time-consuming duties, the librarians were thus able to devote their time to making the library operate more smoothly and efficiently.

Under the supervision of Miss Woodworth and Mrs. Kingzett, the girls aided greatly in making the literature of the Midway available to every passerby.

R. Petti, President; L. Jaskulsky, Vice-President; S. Kimmel, Secretary; B. Schaefer, Treasurer. F. Schillace, C. Ballash, A. Hawk, M. Smith, B. Canfield, A. Cicero, R. Howard, W. Bonsack, N. Kingzett, L. Rowland, R. Bauman, J. Shilliday, B. Stanko, J. Snyder, M. Seywert, M. Olsheski, R. Schmidt, G. Woodburn, D. MacFalls, B. Nielsen, J. Downing, N. Hadsell, A. Krause, N. Brown, G. Boettcher, E. Corlett, D. Ganger, G. Hudak, P. Jarmush, J. Lyons, S. Nelson, B. Palley, F. Park, M. Paventi, B. Stjarnstrom, L. Thompson, K. Wagner, M. Williams.

SOME of the biggest crowds along the Midway were drawn to the attractions of the Brush Penguin Players. Not only full-length productions but also a number of one-act plays were presented for Brushites and citizens of the neighboring communities.

Many hard-working Penguins become eligible for the National Thespian Dramatic Honor Society. Ability, service, and cooperation are prime requisites. Last summer, Brush Thespians were honored by being one of six high school groups in the entire nation invited to participate in the National Dramatic Arts Conference at the University of Indiana.

Sports

ATHLETICS have always been prominent among the attractions of the Midway. From the time he is an eighth grader, the potential Arc athlete is continually afforded the opportunity and encouragement necessary to realize his athletic ambitions. The junior high program is an extensive one and serves as an incentive for future participation in varsity sports. Then the player advances through the ranks of junior varsity and "B" team play until, meriting promotion, he earns for himself the privilege of wearing the Brown and Gold varsity uniform.

There are five separate sport programs at Brush: football, basketball, track, baseball, and golf. Football and basketball, being spectator sports, draw the largest crowds.

During the past year these two teams, along with the members of the track squad, played under the auspices of the newly-christened Greater Cleveland Conference. Although both seasons were relatively unsuccessful from a "won and lost" viewpoint, the development of sportsmanship and perseverance on the part of the players far overshadowed the final team standings. The boys never lost their competitive spirit, even when faced with insurmountable odds.

The South Euclid Kiwanis Club performed a wonderful service to Brush High School and the entire school community by constructing the magnificent new grandstand on Korb Field. Brush athletics owe much to the generosity and foresight of these community-spirited business men.

Tom!
Best of luck
to a swell guy Best wishes in the coming years!
Liegie

Tom –
Do a swell guy –
May you have loads
of luck in the future.
